Bankers Report a General Movement Toward Greater Conservatism.

LACK OF RAIN IS BEING FELT

Fall Wheat Appears in Special Danger -Review of Local Conditions In Trade Circles.

Local banking men report a slowing down in business over the state, with people trimming their sails to inaugurate more conservative conditions than for some years past. The lack of much needed rain is reported as becoming a serious question. In some places where fall wheat has been planted, there is not enough moisture to bring it up, so there is fear it will malt in the ground. However, the outlook is made brighter by knowledge of the fact that farmers are getting goed prices for their products, and as good prices for their products, and as good prices for their products, and as a general thing they are out of debt. But, the number of men out of employment in this city is considerable, with not bright prospects in that line. However, this is the case in other large cities, with few exceptions. There are considerable in the sudden rise in large cities, is a ray of light in the sudden rise in the bank clearings, to figures in excess of the corresponding days of instagrar. This may prognosticate a good Christmas trade. At all events, there are no complaints of moment from the various trades.

HENRY CLEWS' LETTER.

Henry Clews in this week's circular letter has the following to say: General business remains quiet and modity prices are tending downward. In the fron trade there has been a still further contraction of moduction, although at the moment some improvement is noticed in the demand for pig iron. The railroads are demand for pig for.

not entering the market with any freedom, but instead are curtailing their nurchases as far as possible, partly

if the hope of securing better prices, and partly with a view to waiting until conditions become more satisfactory. Much will depend upon the decision of the Interstate Commerce commis-sion in regard to rates. Should the latter allow the railroads to make some increases, and thereby recoup themselves for diminished net revenue in other directions, the companies will then be in a position to enter the market for supplies more freely. though general business is quiet, no great falling off in volume can be detected when compared with a year ago. Bank clearings in October at all ago. Bank clearings in October at an points were reported 15 per cent less than a year ago. This decrease, however, was largely due to the heavy shrinkage of 21 per cent in New York, where the inactivity on the stock exchange explained much of the loss. Outside of New York the total clear-Outside of New York the total clear-ings showed an increase of about 1 per cent. In the middle states (in-cluding New York) there was a loss of 18 per cent, in New England a loss of 2 per cent, in the middle western states a loss of 2 per cent, while the Pacific states showed an increase of Pacific states showed an increase of 10 per cent, southern states 4 per cent and other western states 1 per cent. These figures do not suggest any im-portant reaction in business. Never-theless, the fact that the forward evement has been checked is a mat the increased cost of doing business i a ready an item of importance. resh outbreak of labor trouble is anything but assuring to business men, HARDWARE.

The hardware trade reports the fall The hardware trade reports the fall rush as practically over, so that nothing more than the ordinary business is expected beyond picked up conditions obtaining at this time of the year. Scasonable goods are being sent out, with re-orders and fillers in. Trade for October and November has been entirely satisfactory, with collections good. Salesmen are sending in orders for spring delivery more so in orders for spring delivery, more so than a year ago, increasing generally orders over last year. Money is earler, and the trade anticipates improved conditions for the new year. LUMBER.

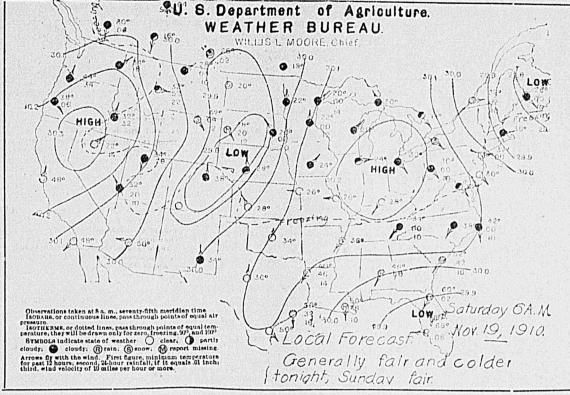

The lumber trade reports easier times in the car shortage situation as the crops are about all moved; but the freight congestion still is quite manifest hindering through shipments to that extent. Trade conditions, otherwise, continue the same, and are likely to thus continue as long as the weather remains open. The cement factories continue to hold their own. but as soon as freezing weather comes, they will begin stacking up their prod-uct for the spring demand which promises to become phenomenal.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS.

The local wholesale dry goods trade continues to work on spring orders. Otherwise conditions are quiet, as ob-tain this time of year, only staples be-ing sent out. Jobbers report as to the trade at large that cotton goods are quiet, sellers having waited for the results of the election and its consequent developments. It is claimed that advances are needed if cotton holds strong, and that present buying in dry goods stores are below the normal. There is a demand for printed goods, especially glinghams, but in bleached fabrics there is but little doing, even in fine count, plain bleached cloths. Colored cottons are steady, most of the mills having covered their November and December quiet, sellers having waited for the ered their November and December output with orders. Tickings rule firm, and denims are moderately well sold. Heavy goods promise well, a larger demand being anticipated for the next year. Cotton blankets are in good condition. Salesmen with wash goods and white goods have been making progress on spring orders, reorders coming along more frequently.

making progress on spring orders, reorders coming along more frequently.
Voiles, dimitles, marquisets, foulards, organdies, printed batistes and a variiety of new colorings and designs on lawns have been ordered liberally.
There is some gain in underwear, seasonable heavy garments being in demand. Winter hosiery is also selling well. In knitted goods there is a growing demand for Egyptian yarn goods. Prices on hosiery and knit goods are no lower as a rule, with a trend toward a higher level. Orders for lineas have been refused, manufacturers being unwilling to contract for future deliveries, even at top prices.
Flax continues upward. Heavy burlaps are not plentiful, and shipments are not expected immediately. Silk piece goods are quiet though buyers are still willing to place orders for spring, while manufacturers hesitate on account of raw silk advances. Printed foulards are a presidence. on account of raw silk advances, Printon account of raw silk advances. Print-ed foulards are a puzzle, as it is not certain whether there will be a popu-lar demand for this class of goods in the spring. Silk volles of the finest domestic manufacture and better imported grades, have met with a heavy demand for spring, Pongees, tungs, and tussah silks have tures have been turned out for spring in large quantities; but manufacturers are hesitating over accepting further orders in the face of sharp advances on raw silk and cotton yarns. RETAIL DRY GOODS.

The retail dry goods trade reports a quiet week, though with business generally fair there is no occasion for complaint. There is a large sale on of plumes in the millinery department, where business has begun to pick up. The Christmas trade has not yet begun to stir, though there are premoni-tions and dealers believe there will be a good deal of money laid out for pres-

BUSINESS NOTES

Several special dividends were declared during the week, one by the Des-eret National bank, which disbursed five per cent, or $25,000, making 17 per cent for the year. The Deseret Sav-ings bank paid 10 per cent, which will make 50 per cent for the year. The big feature of the week in money cir-cles was the disbursement of some-thing like $1,500,000 to the farmers of Utah and Idaho for beets. The fac-tories will begin closing down about Dec. 10.
